

John Lisle, Principal Outback Solutions®

John Lisle is the principal of Outback Solutions®, a California corporation. He and his team have been designing web sites since before the turn of the century! Every member of the Outback Solutions team of web presence specialists resides in the USA. Prior to taking up residence in Sacramento he, along with his wife Eva, completed a 20 year tour of the world, courtesy of the Australian Army!

John has lived on four continents, seen much of the world and encountered people from just about every culture and country. He has met the Queen of England, three Australian Governor Generals (presidents), General Norman Schwarzkopf, the Crown Prince of Thailand and countless other dignitaries.

John received technical training in the Australian Army. Using the knowledge he acquired, John started the Internet design and service company today known as Outback Solutions. The company is grounded on the ethical code, “Do more, be more, give more than expected, and have fun doing it!” Outback Solutions has clients throughout the USA and overseas.

Outback Solutions’ site designs have won a number of honors including 10 Dotties (northern California web design awards) nominations and two Dotties winners. Another site won the Rocklin Chamber of Commerce Best Website Award.

John is intimately involved in Outback Solutions’ daily operations. His heritage, diverse life experiences and unique skill set greatly influence the products of the company. John’s passion is to assist business people to live a “Givers Gain” lifestyle and adopt an abundance attitude in order to grow their professional networks and business profitability.

John is also very active in his local community. He is a current member and past president of the American River Parkway Foundation, and also served five years on the Arden Arcade Community Advisory Council.
